We are asking every angler and water user to take a few simple precautions to help control the spread of zebra mussels and New Zealand mud snails. Zebra mussels like to attach themselves to water intake structures and can colonize any firm surface that is not toxic. New Zealand mud snails, in large colonies, can consume most available food of native creatures such as native snails and aquatic insects which can result in a significant impact on fish. These small snails can be found clinging to waders, boats, tackle and other fishing accessories.

STOP AQUATIC HITCHHIKERS!TM

Prevent the transport of nuisance species.
Clean all recreational equipment.
www.ProtectYourWaters.net

- 1. Thoroughly clean and rinse your equipment before you leave a fishing site.
- 2. Completely dry all equipment before using again.
- 3. Please be sure to remove any visible vegetation from items that were in the water, including the boat, trailer, and all equipment.
- 4. Never release fish or any other living creature into any water it did not originate in.
- 5. Dry out your boat and other equipment for at least 48 hours before using in Idaho waters. Examine your boats exterior for mussels if it has been docked in infested waters. If mussels are found or the exterior is heavily fouled by algae, either clean fouled surfaces or leave the boat out of the water for at least five days before enjoying Idaho waters.
